DEMOCRATS

Rejoice That State Has Repudiated
Morrow and the Republican Machine.

State Democrats Will Give Timely
Aid to Fellow-Democrats in Louisville.

Looks Like Quin and Searcy-Chilton
Machine Are Not Working Harmoniously.

REFORM WORKERS ARRESTED.

The gathering here Wednesday of Kentucky Democrats means much for the future of the party and the welfare of the State, judging from the programme adopted by those present. Tax reforms, better schools, better roads and election reforms will be the result if the working majorities in both branches of the State Legislature can go through with their present schedule. The speech of Judge Hardin, Chairman of the State Central Committee, was a masterly effort and his reference to the rough-shod methods of the Searcy-Chilton machine in Louisville made a big hit with the crowd. The speaker referred particularly to the raid on the Tyler Hotel, the eve of the election, when Overton Harris, the Democratic candidate for Mayor and a hero in the late war, was arrested and threatened with assault by the Republican machine police. Judge Hardin said that it was significant that the action of the police was upheld in a Republican police court later. That the Democrats of Kentucky are familiar with the performances of the local machine was shown by their reception of any mention of Louisville during the gathering, and this can be taken to mean that the white people of Louisville who gave Mr. Harris a majority of 20,000 can look forward to relief from Kentucky Democracy.

Senator Stanley was given a regular ovation by the crowd when he referred to the utter failure of the Morrow Republican administration in this State, and that Democracy would again take the reins in 1923, four years of the Ballyhoo Governor and his performances in the John Doe pardon case being enough for the voters. Senator Stanley also brought down the house when he referred to the failure of the Harding administration at Washington, and its promises of "back to normality." The speaker said that he was more than pleased to see the large and happy gathering of men and women Democrats of Kentucky and believed that the coming session of the Legislature would mean much for the State's progress and the future of the Democratic party. The reference to the big reversal in Kentucky's vote brought much applause. Morrow's majority of 40,000 in 1919 turned to 58,000 Democratic majority in 1921, a change of close to 100,000 votes, presages a dark and dreary future for the Republican machine in Kentucky. And many present predicted that the tendency to Democracy would give the party a majority in Congress this fall, this State being one of several to give big Democratic gains.

W. Overton Harris, former Democratic candidate for Mayor, was given an enthusiastic reception when called on to speak, and his plea for assistance for Louisville made a lasting impression on the party leaders and legislative representatives. In that speech Mr. Harris said: "As long as 27,000 negroes are able to vote blindly and unthinkingly for a symbol, in ignorance and unconcern of men and principles, and override a majority of 20,000 white persons, so long will Louisville be unable to do its full share in advancing the civilization of Kentucky." Later the speaker endeared himself to the big gathering when he said: "Perhaps the hope closest to my heart, in the great opportunity for public service which I thought I might have, was that I might have been able to bring Louisvillians and our fellow Kentuckians throughout the State into closer harmony, and a finer realization of common opportunities and interests." Following Mr. Harris' address he was given a hearty reception by the State men and women Democrats and many were outspoken in their praise of Louisville Democracy's selection for a standard bearer in the recent campaign. One member of the Legislature said: "Well, when you couldn't win with a fine young man like that you must be handicapped sure enough here with the Republican machine."

Mr. Harris' reference to the 27,000 negro votes astonished many of his hearers. Louisville Democrats wonder what their feelings would have been if they witnessed the truckload of drunken negro toughs and gamblers driving through our main streets the day after election holding aloft a dead rooster, the symbol of the Democratic party, and hurling jibes and taunts at the white men and women who had furnished the 20,000 white majority for Harris. They might have been told that the Searcy-Chilton machine leaders were forced to call off the Republican parade and celebration the Saturday night after the election because the negroes who furnished the Republican victory wanted to lead the parade. The Republican bosses were also a little afraid that if the white residents resented their conduct the vicious negroes in line would create a race riot. It is said that the Quin inauguration was held just outside the Mayor's window, and not in the office, to prevent the horde of negroes from taking possession and crowding everyone else out.

To an outsider it appears as if there is trouble brewing in the machine ranks here and the followers of the Searcy-Chilton standard are not so jubilant as one would expect. The dropping of "Governor" Burlingame from the Board of Safety, and "Mack" Brumleve from the Board of Works, looks like someone threw a wrench in the machine. Then Johnny Hoagland, the Mayor's Secretary, has been cast aside for a perfectly young innocent Republican. As Secretary to the Mayor Hoagland also served as editor of the official publication of the G. O. P. machine, and as Secretary of course he could keep Ches and Matt informed on many interesting subjects. Then the refusal of Mayor Quin and the Board of Safety to reappoint Police Capt. Cunningham makes one think that all is not up and up in machine circles. The "slipping over" of Baker's appointment as Police Lieutenant by the Board of Safety didn't seem to sit so well with Quin the man, and the panning he received from the press will make the Mayor keep a weather eye on the tricky machine leaders. At this stage the Mayor seems to be disposed to listen just a little to his Sunday-school associates and reform workers, and this is not setting well with the bootleggers, gamblers and negroes. The latter are telling Ches and Matt as follows: "Say, wot duz dat guy Quinny mean by listenin' to dem goody-goody fellers? fer' aint we the boys dat put him over?" As our legal friends would say, that's quite an able argument and it looks like a merry war is on, and soon at that.

The Searcy-Chilton machine leaders realize now that in injecting the religious issue in the recent campaign a lot of "sorenness" was caused even among the machine followers and the feeling refuses to down. One of the Republican bosses in trying to defend the Republican machine's act in circulating the Torch, Menace and the local sheet, told a prominent Democrat that the Searcy-Chilton machine did not distribute the little pink slip which had a supposed list of Catholics on the Democratic ticket, many of the alleged Catholics being Protestants and prominent Masons. But the boss was knocked off his feet with his attempted alibi when the Democrat came back at him that "My friend, how do you account for the fact that the pink slip was distributed from the windows of the Republicans headquarters in the Realty building the night of the Harris speaking at the Court House?" That alibi is dead. Another who wants to forget is the daily paper which injected religion in the campaign, as it has found that a two-edged sword cuts both ways. Papers containing hundreds of signatures are being mailed in, stating the signatures will not read or subscribe to that sheet until an apology is made for its injection of religious prejudice. One man alone sent in a list the other day containing 313 signatures. The Republican machine and its organ will find that their filthy style of campaigning will bring sorry results in the long run.

Speaking of the machine troubles, here's where the plot thickens, as they say, and if you can solve the following you're entitled to rank with Sherlock Holmes and Nick Carter. This is the puzzle in a nutshell: Dick Dehoney, who conducts a "soft drink stand," Fourth and Main, had his place raided this past week and all the participants locked up by Lieut. Conkling and Patrolman Boes. Dehoney is a Republican and a strong booster for Quin and reform. Disney Peake, a prominent young Republican, was charged with operating the gambling game. And horror of horrors, Paul Sani, under the nom de plume of J. J. Clark, was gathered in the haul. Just three days before Sani, a prominent reform Republican, sent a big floral design to Judge Eugene Dailey of the Police Court when the latter was sworn in. Hardly had the excitement died away when the police raided Brown's cafe on Story avenue, locking up thirty-one alleged gamblers, most of whom were recent hard workers for Quin the man. Brown like Dehoney, is a leading Republican worker for purity and reform. Now here's the puzzle: Did the police pull a "boner?" Has Quin gone after his former boosters or has the Searcy-Chilton machine been scared a few of the boys just to raise the ante for the Republican machine funds?

BISHOP OF TOLEDO.

When Msgr. Samuel A. Strich, of Natick, was consecrated Bishop of Toledo on Wednesday he became the youngest member of the American hierarchy. Msgr. Strich was consecrated Bishop almost at the exact minute at which Archbishop Curley was installed as the head of the Archdiocese of Baltimore. Archbishop Henry Moeller, of Cincinnati, acted as consecrator at the ceremonies. Bishop Morris, of Little Rock, and Bishop Thomas E. Molloy, of Brooklyn, were assistants, and Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of Cleveland, preached the sermon. Toledo's new Bishop is the youngest in the United States. He was thirty-four when he was installed. The Bishop was born in Nashville, Tenn., on August 17, 1887. His father was a native of County Kerry, Ireland. His mother was born in America but is of Irish descent. The monsignor has three brothers and a sister living in Nashville. His uncle was a Jesuit priest, and two cousins also belong to that order.

MOURN HER DEATH.

Death on Monday closed the long and useful life of Martha Keene Stickler, beloved wife of John B. Stickler, at the family home on the Bardstown road. Blending with a gentle disposition a keen sense of human needs and a strong determination to do her part, she identified herself with the good work of St. Charles church and for many years assisted continuously in the many works of charity there fostered. Mrs. Stickler was very much beloved for her serene disposition, kindly encouragement and willing assistance. She is mourned by a devoted husband and seven children, who are Mrs. J. M. Bohe, Denver; Sister Regina, Frankfort, and Mrs. Charles Weidener, Mrs. George H. Naber, Miss Mattie Stickler, and Miss Lorena Stickler, Louisville. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Charles church, Rev. Father Raffo being the celebrant of the requiem high mass. She will long be remembered and ever sadly missed.

QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS.

On account of the Christmas Shoppe the monthly meeting of the Queen's Daughters has been postponed to next Friday afternoon at Knights of Columbus Hall. A feature will be the talk of Mrs. Charles B. Semple, who will address the members on "The needed appropriation of funds for State institutions under care of the Board of Charities and Corrections."

LAST FOR THE YEAR.

The St. Helens Co-operative Club held its monthly meeting the last for the year, Monday night in Presentation Academy Auditorium, and the large attendance appreciated the excellent musical programme that had been arranged for the occasion. Much interest was manifested in the address of Miss Lutie Stearns, of Milwaukee, whose subject was "Business Ways of Business Girls."

UNCLE SAM MUST BE ON GUARD.

The defiant Jap and his ally, John Bull, must not catch Uncle Sam unprepared.

the next twelve months he devoted his entire time to leading the Republican cause to victory.

It was under the Presidency of Father O'Flanagan that Sinn Fein fought its first general election in 1918. During that memorable campaign he traveled over Ireland three times, often marching 100 miles a day, and speaking for an hour at each of five or six meetings en route. The result of that election was the practical annihilation of the old Irish Parliament party, only six out of eight candidates surviving the onslaught of Sinn Fein at the polls. The wonderful rescue of Valera from Lincoln prison accomplished, Harry Boland and Michael Collins, chief of the Irish Republican army, doing the work. Father O'Flanagan soon had an opportunity at a secret meeting in Dublin, to render an account of his stewardship to President de Valera, and the escape of de Valera having resulted in the releasing of Arthur Griffith and the other leaders, once again Father O'Flanagan retired into the background, from which he again emerged when the call of duty sounded.

The election campaign was on for the partition Parliament for the six counties so-called the North of Ireland. The leaders were either in prison or unable to appear in public, when Father O'Flanagan, at great personal risk, carried on another intense campaign over the six counties. In one day he spoke in each of the six counties, addressing seven great meetings and making a journey of 120 miles. Large as a result of the campaign waged by Father O'Flanagan, Eamonn de Valera was elected in Down, Arthur Griffith in Tyrone and Fermanagh, Michael Collins in Armagh, and John MacNeil in Derry, this proving the great strength of the Republican movement even in that small Carsonite stronghold of Northeast Ulster.

Father O'Flanagan has not escaped the venom of the British Empire. His home has been raided and robbed by the Black and Tans, and at least four attempts have been made on his life by the organized murder gangs of England.

The eloquence of Father O'Flanagan has gained for him the reputation of being the greatest Irish orator since O'Connell. He has already addressed monster mass meetings in Washington, where 4,000 people tried to force their way into the already crowded Catholic University. At Philadelphia hundreds were turned away from the hall, one of the newspapers declaring that Father O'Flanagan, by a happy combination of wit and oratory, kept his audience "rocking between tears and laughter," during the course of his masterly presentation of Ireland's case.

AROUND FESTIVE BOARD.

The first "Get-Together" or acquaintance meeting of the men of St. Frances of Rome parish was held Thanksgiving eve at the parish school, Cavewood avenue and Payne street. The programme was arranged by a committee composed of Joseph X. Kessack, George Oeswien, J. F. Fitzgerald, T. H. Merlino, Eugene Broderick, L. A. Blanford, Joseph D. Shirliffe, Fred Blake and Arthur Lauer, and those taking part were:

Opening address, Rev. J. H. Riley. Song, "My Old Kentucky Home." Address by Senator W. A. Perry. Music, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Solo, J. R. Davidson. Address by Thos. C. Mapother. Music, "Joys and Peace." Solo, Ernest Luvia, accompanied by Helena M. Sullivan. Address by J. P. Hanley. Music, "America."

Fourth drawing of prizes, Ponderosa "What Not."

Address by J. D. Shirliffe.

Then came the "around the festive board" chat where old and new friends met and good fellowship reigned supreme. Informal remarks were made by Roy C. Hoyer, James C. Sutton, Vincent Burke, William Colgan and Louis Doyle. "Twas indeed an edifying as well as an enjoyable affair and many valuable and progressive suggestions were advanced for the spread of holy faith and good citizenship. In the new year they will meet again.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Exciting times are looked for at the meeting of Mackin Council Monday night, when the annual election of officers will take place. The candidates for President are John Hession and T. Lee Connolly, each with a strong following whose friends are making an active but friendly campaign. Two full tickets have been nominated and the result is awaited with interest. It is expected the hall will be taxed to hold the voters. Whatever the result, Mackin will secure a good administration for 1922.

HIS FEAST DAY.

This Saturday is the feast of St. Francis Xavier, who was induced to practice a religious life by the example of Ignatius Loyola. He was the greatest missionary of any order that has produced many noble missionaries, and bore the gospel to Hindustan, Melacca and Japan. The descendants of many Japanese converted by St. Francis in the sixteenth century still retain the faith when Americans entered that country. At St. Francis Xavier College, this city, there will be a fitting observance of the day.

IRELAND

Anxious Day Ended With Hope That Collapse of Parleys Be Averted.

Lloyd George Summons and Submits New Proposals to Sinn Fein Delegates.

De Valera Leaves Dublin For a Tour and Will Visit Counties.

TRUE TO REMAIN UNBROKEN.

Monday was one of anxious waiting in England and Ireland for the next move in the Irish peace negotiations, with hope still prevailing that after the five months' truce and the prolonged conferences over the problem some way would be found out of the present apparent impasse. So far as appears, the next definite statement likely to reach the public was to come at noon Tuesday in Belfast when Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, will read in the North Ireland Parliament the statement agreed on between him and Premier Lloyd George giving the cause of the failure of the negotiations between himself and the British Prime Minister for the establishment of an All-Ireland Parliament. According to a dispatch from Belfast Monday evening, the statement will not touch on what has passed between Lloyd George and the Sinn Fein representative, including the latter's withholding of consent to take the oath of allegiance to the crown.

Arthur Griffith and Robert C. Barton, of the Irish delegation, were at Sinn Fein headquarters Monday in London ready to see the Prime Minister should he desire a conference with them on his return, while Sir James had further consultations with his Cabinet in Belfast.

Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, speaking before the Northern Parliament Tuesday in Belfast, said he had told Prime Minister Lloyd George that the British Government's proposals to Ulster for the settlement of the Irish question were utterly impossible. He said Ulster would not enter an All-Ireland Parliament under the present conditions, but was prepared to discuss other avenues for settlement.

An anxious day in the negotiations designed for the pacification of Ireland ended Tuesday night with the hope that a complete collapse of the parleys might be averted. Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, as was expected, declared before the Northern Parliament in Belfast that Ulster had refused absolutely to accept an All-Ireland Parliament, demanded as a solution by the Sinn Fein delegation. But he announced Ulster's willingness to discuss other proposals for an Irish settlement if they were submitted by next Tuesday.

Premier David Lloyd George immediately summoned the Sinn Fein delegates to consult with him and his Ministers and submitted to them new proposals which, if they were approved by the Sinn Fein delegation, will be presented to the Ulster officials before next Tuesday. The nature of the alternative proposals will not be divulged pending their consideration by the Sinn Feiners.

The situation still is very critical owing to the double deadlock—Ulster refusing to enter an All-Ireland Parliament and the Sinn Fein refusing steadily to yield on the question of allegiance to the Crown. The negotiations, however, have not been broken off and may be continued on a new basis.

Eamonn de Valera has left Dublin for a tour of his constituencies. Not only is a breach of the Irish truce, which has endured five months, unexpected following a possible cessation of negotiations, but the newspapers generally imply that all the interested parties recognize the importance of maintaining it. Some even go so far as to say that a tacit understanding already exists between the British, the Sinn Fein and Ulster that the truce shall remain unbroken and thus enable the resumption of the negotiations at any possible moment should they be suspended at this time.

These hopeful outlooks regarding the probable maintenance of peace in Ireland coincide with many fresh rumors of Premier Lloyd George's preparations to depart for the Washington conference at an early date.

One indication of hope was the return from Dublin of Robert C. Barton, one of the Sinn Fein peace delegates. Michael Collins and Desmond Fitzgerald, however, remained in Ireland to await, it was thought, the results of Premier Craig's utterances in the Northern Parliament.

Thursday morning's London reports were that all Government business was giving way to the gravity of the Irish situation. Both Government and Irish circles can avert the collapse of the conference and a renewal of warfare. It had been intended to hold a Cabinet council Wednesday night to consider German reparations in connection with the visit of Dr. Walter Rathenau, but this had to be postponed in order to permit the special Cabinet committee dealing with Irish affairs to hold a meeting.

PATRIOTISM.

There are many of our fellow-citizens who flatly deny that any Catholic man can be truly patriotic and thoroughly American. They think and they dare to say that just because you are Catholics you can not be patriotic. Now the exact contrary is true. Just because you are Catholics you must be patriotic. Their chief argument is that every Catholic owes allegiance to the Pope, hence his affections are alienated from his country. The answer is most simple. We owe the Pope a spiritual allegiance, and that spiritual allegiance has nothing whatever to do with our duty towards our country. If I follow the leadership of a foreigner in science, in medicine or in art, writes Rev. F. L. Kenzel, C. S. S. R., everybody sees that I can still be a patriotic American. Why, then, can I not follow the dictates of a foreigner in religion and still love my country? The head of the Episcopalian church is the King of England, and yet we hear no outcry against foreign allegiance in their regard. The head of the Salvation Army is in London, yet those here are all good Americans. Hence it is all nothing but blind bigotry and hostility to the great church that teaches patriotism as a sacred duty. The Catholic church teaches you that you must be obedient to the powers under which you live, and that you must uphold the rights of the nation at the cost of your life's blood, if need be. Pius IX. condemned before the whole world in 1849 the proposition that it is lawful to rebel against legitimate rulers, and Leo XIII. condemned a similar proposition in 1881. Hence the patriotism of a Catholic is not a matter of expediency or a sentiment confined to hysterical outbursts on national holidays, but it is an abiding, steady, conscientious principle, which holds good for all times and under all forms of legitimate government. The Catholic church says to her children, "You shall not tear down the flag of your country and trample it in the dust, and raise in its stead the standard of bloodshed and rebellion." She says, "You can not be a good Catholic and at the same time a traitor to your country."

DISCOURAGING.

The latest heard from the Anglo-Irish conference is discouraging, despite the reports of the early days of the week. Those who had the Irish question all settled up before the conference was a week old are still awaiting developments. We hope for peace from the conference—but there is no use in trying to deceive ourselves. To work out all the details of a settlement will require months. Meanwhile the truce continues in Ireland—outside of Belfast. Whether peace or war follows the conference, it can at least be said that an effort was made on the part of Ireland to secure peace with justice and honor. If the conference fails, it will not be because the representatives of Ireland did not do all in their power for peace.

REALLY SALUTARY.

Forty thousand employees of Armour & Co. and of Swift & Co. made a voluntary cut in their wages, approximating a 10 per cent. reduction. The decision on the part of the employees of the Armour Company came at the end of a two-day conference, at which forty-eight men—twenty-four representing the employers and twenty-four the employees—sat around a table at the Armour plant in Chicago and threshed out their differences under the provisions of the industrial management plan inaugurated by the company eight months ago. Workingmen delegates from each of the ten plants of the company in various parts of the country participated in the conference. At both meetings the books of the company were opened and the financial situation of the packers explained. The representatives of the employer agreed that a cut in wages was necessary, and then a committee—five from the packers and five from the men—took the decisive action after five hours of deliberation. When A. S. Triplett, an employee from St. Joseph, who had been selected as Chairman of the committee, submitted the report, he was loudly cheered.

HOLYDAY.

Next Thursday, December 8, the feast of the Immaculate Conception, will be a holiday of obligation, when all should hear mass. The services in all the churches will be the same as on Sunday, the only changes being on Sunday, the only changes being earlier for the benefit of working people. Hours for the masses will be announced tomorrow.

BILL OF SALE MADE APRIL 1, 1915, BY H. A. J. PULS TO

H. B. DRIVER

KNOW ALL MEN, that I, H. A. J. Puls, of Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, for and in consideration of the sum of $3,500, do bargain, sell, transfer, assign and deliver unto H. B. Driver, of Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, the dye and cleaning business of H. A. J. Puls, now being carried on and conducted by the said Puls at No. 426 South Fifth street, in Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, its good will, name, the lease of said premises at No. 426 South Fifth street, in said city, county and State, and all my rights, title or interest in or to every tangible or intangible thing or property now upon said premises or in any way belonging to, pertaining to or connected with the said business, the books of the business and all notes or accounts unpaid as of April 1, 1915, together with all of the following enumerated and listed articles of personal property now on said premises or belonging thereto or to the said business conducted as aforesaid at No. 426 South Fifth street, in said city, county and State.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD, as of and from April 1, 1915, all and each of the above bargained, sold and delivered rights, titles and interest to the said H. B. Driver, his executors, personal representatives and assigns forever.

And I, the said H. A. J. Puls, do further covenant with the said H. B. Driver, that there is now no mortgage, lien or encumbrance on any of said property or business or interest, and that I, H. A. J. Puls, will not for a period of ten years, engage or be connected, directly or indirectly, with any business competing with the business herein sold to H. B. Driver, conducted by the said Driver or by the corporation herein referred to.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this first day of April, 1915.

H. A. J. PULS.

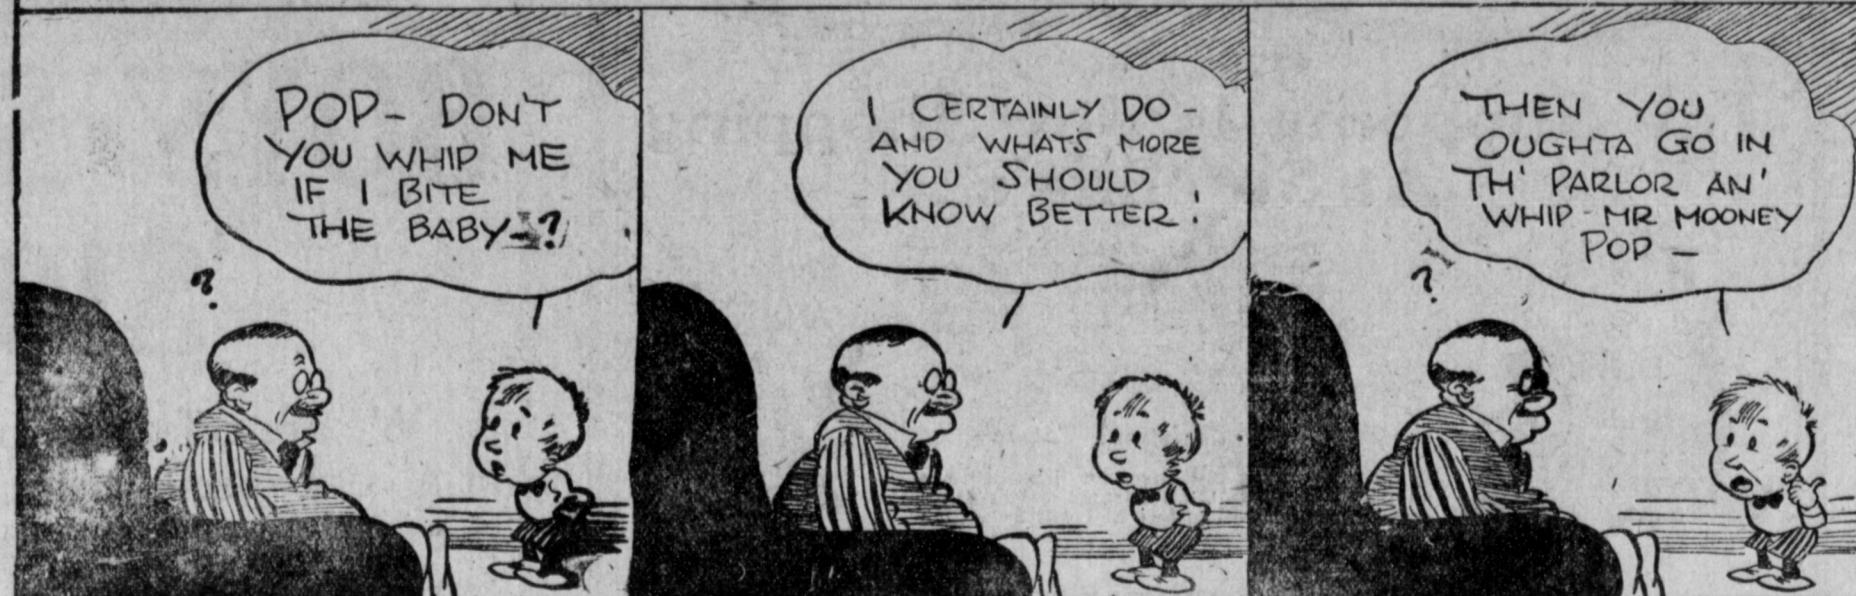

Witnesses:
Arthur M. Wallace,
R. G. Friggs.
Our business has been very successful since I purchased the interest of H. A. J. Puls, April 1, 1915. At that time it was a very small business, doing under $300 business during the week ending April 10, 1915, but with hard work and sound business methods we have built up a wonderful trade, independent of any association or combine, and our business for the week ending April 9, 1921, has increased 500% over the business for the week of April 10, 1915. We have enlarged our place of business at 421 WEST CHESTNUT STREET, and on May 23, 1921, we purchased the plant and assets of the Economy Cleaning Co., which is one of the most up-to-date dry cleaning plants in the city.

FORTY HOURS.

This coming Sunday, the second in Advent, the Forty Hours' Prayer will open with high mass in St. Mary's church, Eighth street. These services at this church are always impressive and bring together many of the former old members of the congregation. The solemn closing exercises will take place Tuesday.

PREPARE FOR RETREAT.

Next week a retreat, under the auspices of the Holy Name Society, will open in Holy Cross church, Thirty-second and Broadway, beginning Thursday evening and closing the following Sunday night. The services will be conducted by a Dominican father who is an able and eloquent pulpit orator. There will be masses every morning and sermon and benediction at night. Rev. Father Hill, the pastor, will welcome all men to this retreat, which will be a preparation for Christmas.

OWENSBORO.

LaVega Clements will be the next City Attorney of Owensboro, it was decided Tuesday at a caucus of the Mayor-elect and the Commissioners elect. Mr. Clements took an active part in the Democratic campaign this fall. John Lyons, for seventeen years an Owensboro patrolman, will be Chief of Police.

ELIZABETHTOWN.

Miss Isabella Ray and Henry W. Brian were married at St. James church, Elizabethtown, by the Rev. P. M. Monaghan. Miss Leona Ray and Rudolph Rogers were the attendants. The bride is a daughter of John D. Ray, and the groom a son of James W. Brian.

FRANKFORT.

The marriage of Miss Eunice Hicks, of Cincinnati, to M. F. Maloney, of Newport, was solemnized in Frankfort at the rectory of the Church of the Good Shepherd, the Rev. Edward Klosterman officiating. The attendants were Mrs. W. J. Kennedy and Richard Herndon. Following the ceremony Mrs. Kennedy entertained at dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Maloney, the other guests being Mr. Mrs. Baxter Cressy, of Louisville; Miss Bruce Bartol, of Lexington; Miss Mary McFadden, Miss Nell Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morgan, Messrs. Richard Herndon, E. G. Nell and Master Edward Bruce Kennedy. Mr. Maloney formerly lived in Frankfort, when he was chief clerk for the Workmen's Compensation Board.

BALTIMORE'S ARCHBISHOP.

The reception to Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, when he arrived to occupy his See on November 30, was quasi-private and confined to the priests and people of Baltimore and the suffragan Bishops. No invitations were sent to the clergy or laity of other dioceses. The solemn invitation ceremony will be that of conferring the pallium on the new Archbishop. The date of the ceremony has not been set, but it probably will be next spring. Archbishop Curley was escorted from St. Augustine to Baltimore by a committee of three priests—Monsignor C. F. Thomas, rector of St. Patrick's church, Washington; Monsignor Michael F. Foley, St. Paul's church, Baltimore, and Rev. Louis B. Stickney, rector of the Cathedral of Baltimore. Every church bell in the diocese rang out at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of November 29 when the new Archbishop arrived in Baltimore.

RECENT DEATHS.

After a decline in health for two years, William F. Metcalfe, aged fifty, passed peacefully into eternal rest at his home, 1319 Morton avenue. Will Metcalfe was one of the type of men whose integrity and industry give permanence to any community. In his day and generation he did his full duty to family and neighbors, who realize their great loss. His funeral took place Saturday morning with requiem high mass at St. Brigid's church. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Annie Sinnott Metcalfe; three sons, William O., Carroll F., and John J. Metcalfe; two daughters, Miss Huberta Metcalfe and Mrs. J. Frank Russell; two sisters, Mrs. Michael Tynan and Mrs. William Smith; a brother, James Metcalfe, and his mother, Mrs. Margaret Metcalfe.

Funeral services for Miss Ellen Brown, 55 years old, who died Saturday at her home in Owensboro were held Monday afternoon at St. Brigid's church. Miss Brown is survived by a sister, Mrs. Betty Jones, Louisville, and four brothers. Clem Brown, Pittsburgh, and Robert, James and John Brown, Owensboro.

Many friends tender sympathy to Ezra and Nora Sweet, 2353 Sycamore avenue, from whom the Angel of Death has taken their infant son, Edward Eugene, whose advent three months ago brought happiness into their home. Tuesday the body was tenderly laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery.

Mrs. Rosie Haffner, an aged and respected member of St. Charles congregation, the widow of Frank Haffner, was released from earthly suffering at her home, 2613 West Market street. Mrs. Haffner is survived by seven children, Frank T., Neal J. and Walter C. Haffner; Miss Regina Haffner and Mrs. G. R. Ford, Mrs. S. H. Ruffra and Mrs. A. B. Keywood; one sister, Miss Margaret Fox; two brothers, C. T. Fox, Quincy, Ill., and John T. Fox, Oklahoma, Cal. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Father Raffo.

On Sunday there passed away one of the pioneers of Sacred Heart parish, John R. Keeley, sixty-eight years old and for nearly half a century an engineer on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary Dorsey Keeley, and a daughter, Mrs. George Clinch 310 Shawnee Terrace, are three sons, Thomas, William and Harry Keeley. The funeral took place Tuesday morning at Sacred Heart church. Rev. Father Patrick Walsh conducting the solemn obsequies.

The passing of Miss Gracie D. Frey, the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Frey, Cleveland boulevard, leaves an aching void in the family circle and among her many friends that will not be soon filled. She was eighteen years old and possessed a genial disposition and splendid traits of character. Her funeral took place Sunday afternoon, with interment in St. Michael's cemetery.

Mrs. Josephine Metzler, thirty-one years old, wife of Charles J. Metzler, died Sunday afternoon at her home, 1233 Hull street. Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Catherine Hubbuch, and a small daughter. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at St. Aloysius church, attended by many mourning friends and relatives.

INDIANS LOSE REAL FRIEND.

In the death of Father Ketcham, the Catholic Indians of the United States lost a real friend and a zealous missionary. Father Ketcham was a convert of Puritan ancestry, and he became a tireless worker on behalf of the Catholic Church. He was not noted for his sermons—but he did the rough, hard work on the missions where neither applause nor fame awaited him. And afterwards in Washington he did his great work for the Indians quietly and without ostentation. He had work to do which required all his ability and prudence to accomplish. That he succeeded in doing so much for his Indians tells how hard he labored. He worked for God and for his Indian friends.

RETREATS.

Rev. Father Leander, C. P., rector of the Sacred Heart Retreat, on Tuesday began a retreat for the Little Sisters of the Poor at the Home for the Aged, Tenth and Magazine. The closing will take place on December 8, the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

Rev. Father Raphael, C. P., is at Nazareth Academy, where on Monday began a retreat for the Sisters of Charity. This also will close on the feast of the Immaculate Conception.
